“Autonomous Trucks and Regulation: The Road Ahead” Webinar

Autonomous Trucks and Regulation: The Road Ahead

In many states, the AV industry and elected officials are working together to make the future of transportation a reality. When creating laws that allow vehicles with higher levels of automation to take to the roads, leadership in state legislatures is important.

On November 1, a newly signed law will take effect in Oklahoma, authorizing fully autonomous vehicles to operate under certain conditions. When enacted, Oklahoma will join other states along the important I-40 corridor that allows the deployment of AV vehicles for freight hauling and other commercial purposes.

Oklahoma State House Representative Nicole Miller and Kodiak Robotics Head of External Affairs Daniel Goff will join us to discuss how Oklahoma is taking the next step in embracing AV technology's benefits to freight trucking. In this panel, Rep. Miller will describe how she successfully brought people together to pass AV legislation critical to the future of her state.

Panelists:

- Rep. Nicole Miller - Chair of Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation, Oklahoma House of Representatives, District 82
- Dan Goff - Head of External Affairs, Kodiak

Upcoming Events

Wednesday, July 27th, 10:15- 11:00 AM CST please join the 2022 Oklahoma Traffic Safety Summit for a breakout session on Automated Freight and Safety in Oklahoma, with Brett Fabbri Head of Law Enforcement Policy, and Roadway Safety Kodiak AI.

EMERGING AVIATION SUBCOMMITTEE UPDATE – Doug Wood

The Subcommittee currently has 10 members and has three additional nominees for consideration:

- Kinsley “Trigger” Jordan of Enid, Oklahoma, Former Air Force pilot and Innovation Strategist for the Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force in the CSAFs Strategic Studies Group Innovation team – Morpheus; nominated by Victoria Natalie of Oklahoma State University.
- Ethan Clark, Director of Commercial Operations from Vertical Aerospace; nominated by Geoff Camp of ACES.
- Nathaniel “Nate” Jones, Director of Fires Requirements, Capabilities and Solutions for Land Warfare & Air Defense for Raytheon Missiles & Defense, a business of Raytheon Technologies; nominated by Teira Cole of FISTA.

All three were recommended for approval by Director Ardies and Doug Wood. Votes were cast, and all three nominations were approved by the Advanced Mobility Council.
